TOWN AND COUNTRY.

Rain. Rain, RAIN.

This is indeed unfavorable weather for harvesting.

Read L. C. Fay’s card on the first page and call on him when in need of his services.

Read carefully the legal notices in this issue and see that there is nothing concerning you.

The building of a four-mill at Rock Valley has again been postponed until next year.

Our citizens should remember that J. H. Queen & Co., handle all grades of coal at low figures.

Our streets will present a much better appearance if the tall and unseemly weeds were mowed down.

Business of all kinds is picking up, and our merchants intend to put in extra large stocks of goods this winter.

Two members of the Lennard Gun Club were brought up and fined last week for disobeying the game laws.

M. Rhynsburger’s house on Bald Hill sored, and will soon be ready for occupancy. It will make a pleasant home for Mr. R. and his family.

J. Jongewerd, proprietor of the meat market, keeps constantly on hand fresh beef and mutton, as well as hams, bolonga and salt meats. Don’t forget it.

The evening train going west on the Milwaukee road now passes the stations in this county about three and a half hours earlier.

Invitations were received here last week for the marriage ceremony of Mr. Frank LeCocq, Jr., to Miss Rhoda Brinker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Brinker, at the residence of the bride’s parents in the Holland settlement, Douglas county.

The marriage took place at 4:00 o’clock on Wednesday, August 15th, 1893, and we suppose that yesterday the happy couple were married in a church. The bride, Miss Brinker, is one of the handsomest of the many fair girls who have grown up in the Holland colony in Sioux county, and the groom is the recognized leader of the farmers in Douglas county. Mr. and Mrs. Brinker have many friends in Saxon county, but know him as a talented and successful young business man.

That the future of Frank and Rhoda—though they will always be known to their friends here—may be as happy in the years to come as it promises to be in this union of hands and hearts is the sincere wish of many friends here, among which must be numbered the Herald.
