Dec. 14, 1974.

Dear Mr. Nieuwenhuis:

Time moves on and soon it is again Christmas. I will be 88 next March, the only one left of eight brothers. I still go to my office, but don't do any actual legal work. But I find it pleasurable to meet old friends to talk to. I am feeling well, most of the time.

I have a few relics, like a walking stick of my great-grandfather, with a dagger inside which can be withdrawn for use, which my wife will send to your Dutch collection, after my demise. Now I am keeping it for possible use as a walking stick; I don't think I will need the dagger.

I wish you and yours a MERRY XMAS and a HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Sincerely,
