SIMON MORI DIDUMO ('67) age 30, and a native of Sudan, Africa, was reported shot to death in an incident at the Federal Building in the Sudan. Miss Arlene Schuiteman, a registered nurse at the Mettu Hospital in Ethiopia, informed friends of the tragedy. Simon fled from the Sudan to Kenya during earlier Arab Nationalist uprisings. Aided by the Rev. Harvey T. Hoekstra, a missionary of the Reformed Church in America, Simon continued his flight for survival by coming to the United States. His education was financed by a number of concerned members of the First Reformed Church of Sioux Center. After graduation from Northwestern, Simon completed work on the M.A. degree in Political Science at the University of South Dakota. In June, 1969, he returned to Africa.

Northwestern College becomes AACTE member

Northwestern College was welcomed into membership of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education during the association's 22nd annual meeting. The AACTE is a national voluntary association of institutions of higher education committed to the improvement of teacher education. Collectively, the AACTE membership prepares more than 90% of the teaching force that enters American schools each year.

President's Club holds first banquet

The first annual Northwestern College President's Club banquet was held December 18, 1969, in the South Dormitory dining hall. Charles Herbert, campus planner, gave the 65 persons in attendance a vision of tomorrow's possibilities in building construction and landscape planning at Northwestern. A new chapel will become the focal point of the modern campus.

Government depository library

Ramaker Library at Northwestern College has been designated as a selective government depository library. Congressman Wiley Mayne (R-Iowa) announced that being named a depository in this category will authorize the Northwestern Ramaker Library to receive a broad selection of government publications most suitable to patron and to scholar demands.

The only other such library in northwestern Iowa is the Sioux City Public Library, which was designated a depository in 1894.
